THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1916

As between a wife who can put high-grade flapjacks on the breakfast table and a great logician who can illumine the most abstruse problems going, the average man will have another flapjack, please.

The New York Times says: "Peace is coming in Europe because it must come, and every day brings it nearer. That is about as far as positive prophecy may go." A perfectly safe statement!

Englishmen are smoking cheaper cigars. No higher can patriotic self-sacrifice go, unless the Englishwomen also consent to wear their last season's clothes.

When a woman marries a fool she is not backward about admitting to herself that her husband married one, too.

The man who says "absolutely!" in response to the most casual observation soon acquires a reputation for profound insight.

Mrs. Mary Starry is visiting her daughter Mrs. John Harvey, of Toledo.

Miss Inez Spaulding of Maumee, Miss Myrtle Butler and Mr. Chas. Holbrook visited Miss Butler's father Mr. Edward Butler, of Milan, the first of the week.

SOLDIERS IN REVOLT

Report from Columbus says that the members of the first ambulance company of Toledo, took "French leave" from the camp Tuesday morning, but were later arrested and placed in the city prison.

Men claim they were given only bread, syrup and coffee for breakfast and their complaints were given no attention.

Investigation by State officials will probably disclose the reason for the revolt.
